For Rising 4th Graders!

Summer Reading Challenges

I am sending home a challenge chart. I would like to see you attempt to complete at least five items on the challenge chart. They do not have to be in a row or consecutive - just any five assignments! On the first day back to school, please plan on handing in your challenge chart with five boxes colored in or crossed off.

The Number One thing children can do to become stronger students is to READ EVERY DAY. By the time you are nine and ten years old, your attention span should be able to tolerate 20-30 minutes of independent reading every day.

The expectations of summer reading are only in place to help you maintain your reading skills and reading level so that you do not lose progress over the summer. Please try to make it a daily habit and I PROMISE you will have a smooth transition into fourth grade!

I will ask that you DO NOT READ the following books- and please try to refrain from watching the movies. These are the books we will read during the school year in class.

1. Crenshaw
2. Wishtree
3. The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane
4. The One and Only Ivan
5. Because of Winn Dixie
6. Frankenstein Does Not Plant Petunias
7. Werewolves Do Not go to Summer Camp
8. The Last Holiday Concert
9. Fuzzy Mud
10. Wish
11. Wonder
12. Wild Robot
13. Where the Red Fern Grows
